WHAT HAPPENS

An opening guide to US admissions

Arbor opens the fair with a clear introduction to the US college landscape — and where these colleges fit in it.

Sessions with the colleges

Hour-long sessions where admissions officers present on six themes that matter most to applicants.

One-to-one conversations

Optional individual meetings between your family and the colleges that fit you best.

Ask your questions directly

Put your questions to the people who actually make admissions decisions — not a brochure or an agent.

WAIT — WHAT IS A LIBERAL ARTS COLLEGE?

Not just arts. These colleges teach sciences, mathematics, economics and computer science — Swarthmore offers a full accredited engineering degree.

Small and selective. Several admit a lower share of applicants than the Ivy League, and classes are taught by professors, not teaching assistants.

Generous with aid. Many offer substantial need-based financial aid to international students.

Known where it counts. Highly respected by top employers and graduate schools worldwide.
